

JESUS

Light of the World

A Season of Wonder and Awe

It is easy to become cynical during the Christmas season amid the ever expanding advertising blitz of stuff that we must own or buy in order to have a Merry Christmas and please ourselves and our families. Should not celebrating Jesus' birthday be something more than capping off a successful retail sales year to bolster our economy? Besides no one really knows for sure when Jesus was born any way so why do we celebrate it on December 25th?

Originally the early Christian church chose that date to offset the pagan feast days centered around the winter solstice, and it turned out to be a stroke of genius in more ways than one. First, back then most believed that the winter solstice, the shortest and darkest day of the year was a period of "thin time" when the boundaries between the spiritual world and the material world became hazy and merged. What an opportune and magical time for the Divine to enter our time and space! Secondly, when we read about the ultimate impact of the Word made flesh in the Prologue to John, "In Him was life, and His Life was the light of men" (John 1:4), then what a perfect time for the Light of the World to make an entrance than on the darkest day of the year. Now I do not know much about astrophysics, but I have been told that the only constant in the universe is the speed of light, and all the experts agree that light is the most ubiquitous thing in the universe – it is everywhere. In fact, even black holes, the densest part of the universe, are now found to be composed of billions and billions of neutrinos of light. So there is no part of the universe free from light, and now I ponder new meaning into the verse, "The light shines in the darkness, and the darkness cannot overcome it." It makes me think that maybe from the very beginning there was a Christ consciousness governing the universe itself and moving in the direction of the Incarnation.

For sure, all these musings help me to approach the celebration of the birth of Jesus with a profound sense of wonder and awe. Did not wonder and awe fill the lowly shepherds when they saw the blazing angel in the night sky of Christmas Eve? Were not the Magi spurred on by the same wonder and awe when they saw the Star of Bethlehem leading them on in that same night sky? But for me the wonder and awe that is ceaseless and mystifying is that God would risk human embodiment and human vulnerability to come into the world as a defenseless baby. God closed the gap to meet us where we are, and from then on it was good to be a human being. Christmas already accomplished what Easter revealed. And Christmas is not the time to worry about the "why's" and "how's" of this mystery; for no one falls in love with theological concepts. Now is the season to be enchanted like the shepherds and Magi and fall in love with the only thing we can fall in love with: another human being – the Baby Jesus! And just stand in the wonder and awe of that event!

And in that aura know that as agents of Christ, we, too, have the power to create on a smaller scale, wonder and awe in our own families and our own communities. Let us do something special this Christmas for the God who did something very special for us, and we will be blessed with an overpowering feeling of the wonder and awe of God's Love. Merry Christmas to you and all of your extended family from all of us at St. Paul United Methodist Church!

Volunteer Spotlight

Every Tuesday at St. Paul, the St. Paul Community committee receives a delicious hot meal provided by one of 28 congregations from around the Miami Valley. What a special blessing for everyone involved!

Through a long tradition of providing this weekly meal, there is a small group of faithful in-house volunteers who do the support work for every meal. These loyal super volunteers are Emma Bey, Mary Deal & Donna Jones. Each week they cheerfully greet our guests, distribute plastic ware and serve hot & cold drinks. Emma, Mary and Donna-thank you for offering "Radical Hospitality" in the name of St. Paul!
